Charles Elwood, Odds-On Favorite, Badly Beaten-Brush Up and Lady Frances Take Two-Year-Old Events-Five Favorites Defeated on a Fast Track.

The Flushing Stakes, for three-year-olds nd upward, at a mile, which was the leading event at Aqueduct yesterday, was run under ng circumstances. An accident to a jockey details of which are told elsewhere, and he unrul: behavior of both horses and ckeys caused a delay at the post of half an When the break finally came the field away in straggling fashion, with Akela and Palette virtually left. Courtmaid, 20 to 1, was the first to show in front, with Pierre Lorillard's The Lady Rohesia, a false favorite to 5, second. But at the end of the first furlong R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Dixieline, 7 to 2, second choice, took command. Then Palette rushed up from the rear and joined Dixieline Lady Rohesia to the head of the stretch, where McCue moved up with All Gold, to 1. It was a hot drive home, with the result in doubt until Fuller came from behind with Namtor, 15 to 1, who won in a ding-dong finish by a head from All Gold, with Dixieline a length back. The time was 1:40.

Newton Bennington's Charles Elwood, cohibitive favorite, suffered a crushing defeat in the handicap at six furlongs. start was fair for all four horses, but Burns took Toscan, 6 to 1, to the front, the Hast ings colt, who was in receipt of twenty-one pounds by the scale from the favorite, leading all the way and winning by a length in 1:13 1-5. Tim Payne, 5 to 1, also took Charles Elwood's measure, beating him two lengths for the place. Charles Elwood's performance was a shock not only to his owner, but also to the sure thing players, who gobbled up 2 to 5 with consummate greed.

Sydney Paget's colors were carried to victory in the first race, for two-year-olds, at four furlongs, by Brush Up, a smart little filly by Ben Brush-Miss Landeman, who went back to threes and won in a drive by three parts of a length from Suzanne Roca-Mora, 10 to 1, the latter beating Blue Print 15 to 1, half a lengh. The favorite, W. M scheftel's Pendragon, even with Fuller up, tan a very poor race. W. B. Leeds's Subtle was left at the post after a delay of nine minutes.
The Columbia Stable's Rapallo filly Lady

Frances, 4 to 1, got up in time to win the fourth event, for two-year-old fillies at four and a half furlongs, by half a length from Pierre Lorillard's Chrysitis, 11 to 5 favorite. Long days, backed down from tens to fours, was third, a head back, but she might have won with a more vigorous ride from Cormack.

Terry McGovern's Cincinnatus, 2 to 1 favorite, captured the fifth event, at seven furlongs, in a gallop by four lengths. John Ahearn, 10 to 1, was driven into the place Burns three parts of a length Frank Farrell's Pretorius, 5 to 1, who headed The Don, 6 to 1, out of third money Don, getting away poorly, ran a fine race under the circumstances. Gaviota, second choice at 7 to 2, was left standing at the

A poor lot faced the starter in the last race, for maidens at seven furlongs. It provided the closest finish of the day, Spanish Lassie, 10 to 1. Lem Reed, 15 to 1, and Trouville s to 1, finishing one, two, three, heads apart as named. Sir Shep, the favorite, was nowhere. The weather was chilly, but the crowd was as large as usual. The track was fast, but form was again awry, five first choices suffering defeat.

GOSSIP OF THE RACETRACK.

JOCKEY OGILVIE'S FOOT BITTEN BY ALL GOLD.

The Boy Taken to the Hospital After a Peculiar Accident-All Gold Must Be Muzzled in Future—Consideration, a $21,000 Yearling, Runs His First Race

A peculiar accident happened to Jockey

Ogilvie at the post for the Flushing Stakes at Aqueduct yesterday. The boy rode the Boston Stable's mare Palette and he had to sooner reached the barrier than W. L. Oliver's All Gold, who was in a vicious mood, began to savage Palette in such a manner that Ogilvie, thoroughly scared, tried to dismount. Before he could do so, however, All Gold had seized the boy's right foot in his mouth and crushed it, also chewing up the stirrup. Ogilvie fell to the ground in agony, Palette running away. The boy was quickly placed in the starter's carriage carried to the paddock, where a physician discovered that he was suffering from a compound fracture of the bones in his foot and ankle. The little fellow was carried in an ambulance to St. Mary's Hospital. It was stated that his guardian would bring suit for damages against the owner of All Gold, who, it was said, was advised several a muzzle. After the accident the stewards ruled that both All Gold and Masterman, in future, would have to wear muzzles or stay

While Ogilvie was carried to the paddock blankets were thrown over the horses at the post, while the jockeys dismounted and bundled up with sweaters. Palette was caught and another jockey, Springer, was engaged to ride her. Ogilvie's father was well known in the days of Gloucester and Guttenburg. and at that time was reputed to be worth $200,000, which he lost later on. The boy never rode before this season, and the chances are that he will never be able to climb into the saddle again.

Sydney Paget started Consideration, a three-year-old gelding by Watercress— Pensa, in the last race, and thereby hangs a tale. Mr. Paget paid $21,000 for Consideration as a yearling, but the gelding was too big to race last year and this was his first appearance in a race. He was heavily backed and rushed to the front with great speed. But he was undoubtedly short of work and began to stop toward the end, finishing three parts of a length outside of the money.

E. R. Thomas's horses, twelve in all, including the $50,000 Hermis, were taken from Gravesend to Jamaica yesterday. Mr. Thomas has already stated that Hermis will hardly go to the post before the Suburban Handicap and that he will not be represented in the Excelsior Handicap on Monday.

The long delay at the barrier in the third ace yesterday caused no end of grumbling. Starter Fitzgerald suspended W. Hennessy and Higgins for the rest of the meeting and fined Shaw and A. Brennan $25 each. At least a dozen times the horses formed in line and were ordered to walk up to the barrier. They wheeled and turned all sorts of ways first one, then another rushing up to the gate, causing the whole field to be turned back. The starter yelled himself hoarse, but the disorder continued. The boys were too anxious to get a running start, and it was only until the penalties were inflicted that they showed an inclination to obey. It was enough to drive an ordinary person out of his senses, but Mr. Fitzgerald insisted on having a "walk-up" in which all took part.

"Why don't they cut the whole business out and go back to the standing start?" asked numerous turfmen, who have been dissatis-fied ever since the season opened at Bennings "What was the matter with the starting before Cassidy sprang this new plan at Aque duct last fall?" queried a prominent owner, who had a horse in the Flushing Stakes. "Surely the public found no foult with the starting under Fitzgerald and Pettingill. And the best part of it was that little or no time was wasted at the post. The stewards of the Jockey Club ought to go back to first principles at once before the racing public throws up its hands."

The last three races were run unusually close together in order to let the crowd get back to town in time for supper. The hustle was relished by everybody because the weather was cold and a heavy wind blow straight in from Jamaica Bay. Incidentally, this miniature gale prevented the two-yearolds from making fast time out of the chute, as they had to run in the teeth of it from start to finish.

Namter, the winner of the Flushing Stakes, hould have been played on his (Coast last winter, yet the wise men, including some of those who have just arrived from Frisco, forgot all about him. He got a neat ride from Fuller, who, by the way, is taking care of himself and is rapidly getting back his former army of followers. The former winners of this event, which was first run in 1898, were Mazarine, Sister Stella, Rare Perfume, Sidney Lucas, Intrusive and Potente.

After his downfall in the second race Charles Elwood's chances for winning the Excelsior Handicap at Jamaica on Monday were regarded as nil. The Prestonpans colt has been troubled with bad feet, but he went to the post apparently fit and ready to run. O'Neill had to ride him vigorously in the first quarter in order to shake him up. But at no time did he show the speed expected of him.

H. K. Vingut's Roly Poly, a racy looking two-year-old filly, by Knight of the Thistle-Seraphine, was a tip in the first race and was played down to sixes. She got away was played down to sixes. She got away poorly and ran very green.

Odom was so anxious to get away with himself in the stake race that he went under the barrier three times on faise breaks. Bill

Daly watched him with much interest and stood a lot of good natured joshing from the Just why the layers made The Lady Rohesia an equal favorite with Dixieline in the third event few seemed able to explain. But at hat, there was enough play on Pierre Lorillard's filly to make her close first choice at s to 5, while Dixieline went back to 7 to 2. J. Boden's Masterman appears to be as much of a disappointment so far this season as his stable mate, Rosetint. The fourth race bristled with supposed things. Among them was Andrew Miller's Royal Regend, a filly by Ingoldsby-

The Sullivan clan played Terry McGovern's Cincinnatus with supreme confidence, and there was rejoicing along the Bowery last night as a result. Some of the Tammany Hall crowd also backed John F. Ahearn place and show and cashed. Other politicians played Frank Farrell's Pretorius to be third and got the money.

The ring got a jolt when Spanish Lassie took the last race at 10 to 1. Joe Yeager, the Western plunger, was reported to have played the St. Florian filly in a majority of the books. R. W. Walden decided yesterday to ship his entire stable back to Bowling Brook.

John Huggins, who trained the late W. C.
Whitney's horses in England, was a visitor at the track, talking over old times with many friends.

The Oneck Stable has bought Rob Roy back from H. C. Schultz, who claimed him out of a selling race the other day. At Gravesend an extension of fifty feet is being built on the field stand next to the main grandstand.

Crack Mexican Herrera Defeated by Kid

Goodman. The winning streak of Aurelia Herrera the Mexican received a check on Thursday night when Herrera met Kid Goodman, who def ated him on points at St. Louis in a twentyround bout. Goodman was too clever for the Mexican who tried his best to locate his man, but without success. Herrera depended chiefly on a swing to end the contest in his favor. He rushed several times and aimed both hands for his rival's jaw. But the best he could do was to land around the neck. On the other hand Goodman's blows were accurate and reached the mark. Goodman was most effective with jabs. So consistent were these knocks that by the time the bout was over Herrera was in bad shape. One eye was almost closed, his lips were swollen and his face was badly cut up. AUTO BOAT RACING.

Twenty-four Miles an Hour the Limit of Speed 'at Monaco.

The first important racing done by motor boats was at the Monaco meeting, which began on April 6. Those who are interested. n auto boats have been waiting for reports of these races. The accounts of the first three days which have been received show that the boats in the racing class did not do nearly as well as was expected. One boat, the Trefle a Quatre, owned by G. Richard and Brasier, on the first day won a 124 mile race in 5 hours 16 minutes 51 3-5 seconds. This is at the rate of not quite 24 miles an hour, the boat's average speed being a mile in 2 minutes 32 seconds.

The Trèfie à Quatre is a boat 10 metres or 32.8 feet long, and under the French rules her cylinder capacity is 6 litres. There were four starters in this race. Of these the Napier Minor, an English built boat, broke some part of her pump when the race one-third over. This boat, it was said, had never been driven at top speed before the race and she showed very well until the accident happened. Another boat, the Mercedes JII., shipped a sea and was almost swamped. only other boat to finish was the Mercedes I., which is now in her third season. Her time was 6 hours 39 minutes 27 1-5 seconds.

The next race of interest was on the third day of the meeting for racing boats of the first class, with a length of 59 feet. This race had just been started when the Parisienne first class, with a length of 59 feet. This race had just been started when the Parisienne II., a boat 59 feet long, fitted with three 80 horse power Mors motors, each driving a separate propeller, caught fire. On the day before this race this same boat lost one of her propellers and the shafting and she lost another just before the accident in the race. It was said by one of the owners of the boat that a pipe that led from the tank to one of the motors became disconnected and that the gasolene caught fire. Those on board, and there were four, jumped overboard and were picked up by other boats. Two were burned, one so badly that he was taken to a hospital.

The Parisienne II. was towed ashore, and in spite of efforts to put the flames out, nothing could be done until all the oil had burned. Then it was found that the motors were completely destroyed. The cylinders were all cracked and the jackets and other parts melted by the intense heat. In this race the Napier broke down again and the Femina and Pfoultt IV. withdrew. The Lutece won the race, which was stopped after the boats had gone 108 miles instead of the full course of 155 miles. The time for the Lutece was 5 hours 35 minutes 43 4-5 seconds. Her average speed was a mile in 2 minutes 50 seconds, or 21.18 miles an hour.

The racing followed an exhibition at Monaco which lasted eight days, and only those boats that had been exhibited could take part in the races. Several boats that were expected to take part in these contests, among which was the much talked of Fiat, failed to appear, and this took much interest out of the sport.

In addition to the contests for the racing classes, there were races for cruisers and to appear, and this took much interest out of the sport.

In addition to the contests for the racing classes, there were races for cruisers and fishing boats. One race for cruisers brought out ten starters. The course was 52 miles, or 85 kilometres, and the Peugeot III. won in 3 hours 55 minutes 16 seconds. The Titan III was second, being 9 minutes 25 2-5 seconds behind the winner. This was for the small class, or boats under 26 feet. In the second class the Rotceh had a sailover and the Dalifol had a sailover in the race for fishing boats.

NEW ATHLETES FOR QUAKERS. Australians Coming to Study at University of Pennsylvania.

According to the Referee of Sydney, New South Wales, which arrived yesterday, three competitors at the Australasian athletic championships in February last will be installed as students at the University of Pennsylvania in the near future. They are H. Hunter of Victoria, a sprinter and broad jumper; L. M. Macpherson, Victoria, hurdler and jumper, and A. St. Clair, Dawson, a sprinter. Hunter is about the best of this Australia and has a record of 101-5 seconds on a fair track. He is new at the sprinting game, and colonial critics think that when he has had a couple of year's experience on the track he will show record form.

Hunter won the running broad jump

Hunter won the running broad jump in 1903, but was defeated for this year's title by H. L. Duigan, who cleared 21 feet 9 inches against a strong wind: but Hunter was tired after his race in the 100 yards, and his best jump only taped 20 feet 8 inches. He is good for about 22 feet under favorable conditions.

Macpherson can cover the 100, yards in about 10 2-5 seconds, and he secured third place in the 120-yard hurdle at the last championships. George W. Smith of New Zealand was the winner, and his time was 16 2-5 seconds, with Macpherson about three yards away. This slow time, however, was more than counterbalanced by a poor track and head wind. Though not a tip-top sprinter. St. Clair Dawson is believed to be a coming man by the Antipodeans. He has never won a championship at the 100 or 220 yards, but can travel over the century in 10 3-5 seconds, and the furlong in a shade better than 23 seconds.

It is not stated under what conditions the It is not stated under what conditions the Australians will enter Pennsylvania or how they ever came to think of such a thing, but it is understood they are coming for an "education." It is also rumored in the colonies that A. T. Kenny, an Australian and an exchampion swimmer, who studied at Pennsylvania several years ago, had something to do with arranging the curriculum for the prospective students. The athletes will be here for the entrance examination next fall, and if asked they will reinforce the Australian team of athletes at the Olympic games at St. Louis in September. not stated under what conditions the

ARTHUR CRIPPS'S ENGAGEMENTS. Australian Middleweight Champion Popular -May Meet Temple.

The services of the crack Australian middleweight champion Arthur Cripps are much in demand. During the week Sam Fitzpatrick. Cripps's manager, has received three offers to have Cripps meet different men in various parts of the country. One of the offers comes from a club in Kansas City. in various parts of the country. One of the offers comes from a club in Kansas City. The organization wants Cripps to take on Hugo Kelly, the clever Western middle-weight, for twenty rounds. Sam has informed the club that Cripps will accept, provided he receives a guarantee of $2,000, which, in all likelihood, the club will give. If everything is satisfactory Cripps and Kelly will fight within two weeks' time. Cripps also intends to meet Larry Temple, Tom O'Rourke's man, in private if the pair can agree on terms. Temple, who is colored, challenged Cripps upon the antipodean's arrival here, but the foreigner did not conclude to notice the negro until now. If everything is arranged satisfactorily Cripps and Temple will come together in May before a club in New Jersey. Fitzpatrick has not abandoned the idea of matching Cripps and Jack O'Brien of Philadelphis. The offer of a purse of $7,500 made by a club in San Francisco, which Sam received the other day, has not been noticed by O'Brien, although Cripps has accepted Fitzpatrick thinks the offer is a liberal one and cannot understand why O'Brien has ignored it thus far. "Hereafter," said Fitzpatrick to The Sun reporter, "Cripps will only engage in bouts limited to ten and twenty rounds instead of six. He is no six-round fighter, and that is the reason why he failed to put Williams away when they fought the other night. He has always been used to finish contests, so you see what a disadvantage he was at. He is training every day and will be ready to do business on a week's notice, with the best of them."

NEW YORK (N L.), 18; PHILADELPHIA (N. L.), 3. The New York Nationals repaid the Philadelphias with compound interest yesterday for the untimely beating o f the day before It was an overpowering come-back that they made at the Polo Grounds. The score was 18 to 3 in favor of the New Yorks.

Third Baseman Arthur Devlin, who has been more or less of a sensation by his good play since McGraw disclosed his light to the New York public from under the Newark bushel, made a play in the fourth inning that not only thrilled the 6,000 spectators, but turned the tide of the game in favor of New Yorks. Up to that point the outlook for a New York victory was dubious. The Philadelphias had, at the least, an even chance to win. The score was a tie, and they had been hitting harder than the New Yorks. Devlin's feat was that which a ball player aspires most to do, the most heroic deed in the category of his achievements, a home run with three men on bases. There were two out when he knocked the homer, and Danien, Dunn and Warner were sojourning an infield tap put them there. They were there before anybody was out, but Taylor and Browne raised foul flies, and it looked as if there would be no scoring after all. Pitcher Brackenridge let Devlin have a straight, fast ball. Devlin sent the ball back with such terrific force that the leather projectile cleaved the air like an arrow propelled by a bow of a thousand horse power strength and pulled double. It hurtled over Hulswitt's head on a line, streaking through space like a comet, struck the ground out between Thomas leaps and bounds until it reached the left field ropes, where Barry picked it up. crossed the plate before the ball was fielded field ropes, where Barry picked it up. Devlin crossed the plate before the ball was fielded in, and his was the most sensational hit seen at the Polo Grounds in many a day. His was a genuine 24-carst four-bagger.

So great was the enthusiasm that three cheers were proposed for Devlin in the right field bleachers, and the volume of their giving shook the stands. The demonstration was as unusual as the hit. Devlin made three more hits before the game was over.

The New Yorks batted Brackenridge out of the box in the fifth inning. They had things all their own way after the feverish fourth, and kept piling up runs to the finish by hard hitting and the wild pitching and general shabby play of the Quakers. A spasm of error-making, a base on balls and one hit gave the New Yorks two runs in the first inning, and they scored one in the third on a base on balls to Devlin, the latter's steal, an out at first and an outfield fly. Then came four runs in the fourth. Seven runs were made in the first four innings and only two hits had been made in that time.

In the remaining innings the New York hits fell thick and fast, and so did the Philadelphia misplays. The Philadelphias bunched four hits in the third and fourth innings, and Taylor threw in a wild pitch and a base on balls. In all the other innings he was invincible, and McGraw allowed him to withdraw at the end of the sixth. Not a hit was made off Milligan. Jack Warner threw to bases beautifully and Mertes made a vivid catch, taking the ball off the side of the old quarter stand after a hard run. The score.

BROOKLYN, 6: BOSTON (N. L.), 2.

BOSTON, April 22.—Brooklyn had no difficulty in winning from the locals this afternoon. Jones pitched fine ball for his team, holding Boston down to six hits, and he had gilt-edged support. Brooklyn had no difficulty in finding Fisher for hits when they were needed. The game abounded in fast playing by both nines. Sheckard made two splendid running catches in the left garden, and McCormick covered third bag in first class style. The score:

PITTSBURG, April 22.—After having made thirteen hits off Pfiester, Clarke put Camnitz into the box. Pittsburg took five doubles off Harper and the Reds hit Pfiester for five doubles. The batting was heavy on both sides, but the visitors bunched their hits for ten runs on Pfiester and Camnitz came in too late to save the game. WASHINGTON, April 22.—Unused to the gentlo art of making base hits, the Washingtons fell easy victims to the noasterly pitching of "liappy" Jack Chesoro to-day, being held down to a solitary hit and a shutout. Except for two bases on balls to McCornick, Chesbro pitched in perfect form and held the Washingtons speilbound throughout the nine innings. The veteran catcher, Jim McGuire, kept Chesbro constantly mixing McGuire, kept Chesbro constantly mixing McGuire, kept Chesbro constantly mixing his fast breaking in and out shoots that Just cut the corners of the plate and his speedy drop ball, to the complete consternation of the Washington batters.

Only twenty-seven times at bat and one hit against Chesbro is a record that is likely to stand unequalled, for a while at least.

Case Patten also pitched in exceptional form and kept the New Yorks from bunching two hits in one inning until their last turn at bat, when Keeler hit along the left field foul line, went to second on Elberfeld's sacrifice and scored on John Anderson's solid wallop to left field.

McGuire was hit by a pitched ball in the sixth inning, went to second on Chesbro's sacrifice, to third on Conroy's grounder to McCormick and scored when Fultz whipped a short fly back of second base. Although both teams fielded fauitlessly, the game was a listless one, the only redeeming feature being Hoffman's long throw to first base, doubling up Williams after a nice catch of Anderson's fly. A peculiar incident cropped out in the first inning, when Fultz bunted safely and the ball rebounded, hitting Fultz and putting him out. The score:

Brackenridge had to hurry yesterday on his hit to right to avoid being thrown out at first base by Browne, who handled the ball mighty well.

McGann made a smart play yesterday. In trying to throw a forced runner out at second he fumbled as grounder, but recovered nicely and got the batter at first base.
